The next Symposium will be hosted at the University of Cincinnati, May, 2021, in conjunction with the national College Band Directors National Association athletic bands convention.

"Thanks to the last year's symposium, we had the most successful Homecoming event in our very young history. We used many of the ideas that you all brought to the symposium and came away with a balance that I then believed we could turn around this year and use to support our student band, the #1 reason for the existence of our band alumni organizations!" — Sarah Eishen, San Diego State University
